

Words and Music: Bill Roper
Copyright 2012

Halloween

There are creatures searching for you,
Ghosts and goblins waiting at the door,
But what for?
You know they can't ignore you.
You're their favorite kind of tasty treat.
Good to eat.
They're pounding at the doorway, but it will not let them through.
They've got to find another path to lead them here to you.

(Chorus)

The darkness will surround you as the walls are growing thin.
And you see the moon is rising, but it's rising with a grin.
In the corners of your vision, you see things from in between.
They're coming now to take you on the night - of Halloween.

Em Asus2 Em Asus2

Walls are there for reasons,
Separating things we cannot face
From our race.
At the turning of the seasons,
Summer yields reluctantly to fall.
Watch the wall!
The boundaries between the worlds are stretched so very tight
And things that we should never see are coming here tonight.

(Bridge)

Am C
They want to feel your terror when your world's not what it seems.
Am Bm B7
They want to see you running and they want to hear your screams.

There's safety yet in numbers.
Throw another log upon the fire,
Burning higher.
No night for peaceful slumbers.
Together we can wield the power of light
Against the night.
So raise your torches higher and we'll blind the creatures' eyes.
Don't dare to leave the circle of the light that they despise.

Asus2 Em
Of Halloween.

Asus2 Em
Of Halloween.